

City as Ecosystem:
NYC Urban Field Station Artists' Residency
Sept. 13–Nov. 23, 2018

City as Ecosystem:

NYC Urban Field Station Artists' Residency

Sept. 13–Nov. 23, 2018

Katie Holten, Matthew Jensen, Mary Mattingly,
Lize Mogel, Heidi Neilson, Adam Stoltzman

The Arsenal Gallery, Central Park

830 Fifth Ave. at 64th Street, Third Floor

Monday–Friday, 9:00 a.m.–5:00 p.m.

Closed holidays // Free admission

Opening Reception

Wednesday, Sept. 12 // 6:00 p.m.–8:00 p.m.

Related Programming

Science of the Living City: Panel Discussion

Tuesday, Oct. 23, 2018 // 6:00 p.m.–8:00 p.m.

Admission to programming is free but space is limited. To RSVP, email artandantiquities@parks.nyc.gov. For more information, call (212) 360-8163 or visit nyc.gov/parks/art. For accessibility information, artandantiquities@parks.nyc.gov.

Images: Clockwise from top right: Mary Mattingly, courtesy of Swale, photo by Subhram Reddy; Katie Holten, C is for crabapple (New York City Tree Alphabet), 2018, courtesy of the artist; Adam Stoltzman, Alley Pond Park, Queens, 2015, from the project, Parks and People, courtesy of the artist; Lize Mogel, Dry Season (Ashokan), 2016, courtesy of the artist; Heidi Neilson, Moon Arrow, courtesy of the artist; Matthew Jensen, Old Growth, Norwood, from The Forest Between, work-in-progress, courtesy of the artist

NYC Parks

